

The Wellbeing Economy in Scottish Policy & Practice: Identifying Current Barriers and Opportunities

Monday 28th of April, 10-12, Edinburgh

free networking lunch from 12pm

Location: 15a George Square,
SPS Chrystal Macmillan Building, Practice Suite 1.12

We are researchers based in the School of Social and Political Science at the University of Edinburgh and the School of Social and Environmental Sustainability in the University of Glasgow.

We are looking for civil servants and policy professionals to participate in our research to help identify current barriers and opportunities for the wellbeing economy in Scottish policy and practice. This will inform our approach to designing an international collaborative research project.
